

Telecom Customer Care Response Script Book

Exact, word-for-word replies for the customer queries agents encounter most often — organized by category so an agent can find the right query fast and say the right thing, every time.

This edition contains 58 of the most common telecom customer care queries across 12 categories. How to use this book: find the category, find the query closest to what the customer said, and use the scripted reply as-is or adapt lightly to the specific numbers/dates on that customer's account. Where a script references an amount, date or SLA in brackets, replace it with the real value from the account before speaking.

1. Billing & Payments

Q1 "Why is my bill so much higher this month than usual?"

AGENT SHOULD SAY:

Let me pull up your bill right now. ... I can see the difference — your base plan is ■399, and there's an additional data pack of ■901 and a one-time SIM replacement fee of ■150 added on the 14th. Together with tax, that brings your total to ■1,450. Did you request that data pack, or should I look into why it was added?

Q2 "I was charged twice for the same recharge."

AGENT SHOULD SAY:

I'm sorry about that — let me check the transaction log. ... I can confirm there are two successful charges of ■299 on the 3rd, four minutes apart, and only one recharge was applied to your account. I'm refunding the duplicate charge of ■299 right now to your original payment method. It will reflect in 5 to 7 business days, and here is your refund reference number: [REF ID].

Q3 "I don't recognize this charge on my bill — what is it for?"

AGENT SHOULD SAY:

That charge of ■49 is for [service name], which shows as activated on your line on [date]. Let me check whether there's a recorded confirmation for that — one moment. ... I don't see a confirmed opt-in from you for this service, so I'm reversing the charge and deactivating it now. You won't be billed for it again.

Q4 "Can you waive my late payment fee? I forgot to pay on time."

AGENT SHOULD SAY:

I understand — it happens. Let me check your payment history. ... Since this is the first time you've missed the due date in the last twelve months, I can go ahead and waive the ■50 late fee this once. I've applied that now. Just a heads-up, this is a one-time courtesy waiver, so it'd be good to set a payment reminder going forward.

Q5 "My auto-pay deducted money but my bill still shows unpaid."

AGENT SHOULD SAY:

Let me check both the payment gateway and your account status. ... I can see the payment of ■599 was successfully deducted on the 5th, but there was a delay in it reflecting on your account due to a sync issue on our end. I'm manually updating your account right now so it correctly shows as paid — this will not affect your service or credit standing.

Q6 "How can I get a copy of my previous bills?"

AGENT SHOULD SAY:

I can help with that. Your last twelve months of bills are available anytime in the [App/Portal name] under Billing History, or I can email the last three months' bills to your registered email address right now — which would you prefer?

Q7 "Why do I have to pay taxes on top of my plan price?"

AGENT SHOULD SAY:

That's standard — your ■399 plan price is before applicable government taxes, which come to ■71.82 this cycle. So your total is ■470.82. This tax is set by the government, not by us, and it's applied the same way across all telecom operators.

2. Network, Signal & Call Quality

Q8 "I have no network signal at home right now."

AGENT SHOULD SAY:

I'm sorry for the trouble — let me check the tower status for your area. Could you confirm your exact address or pincode? ... Thank you. ... I can see there's ongoing maintenance on the tower nearest you, expected to complete by [time/date]. In the meantime, since you have Wi-Fi at home, I'd recommend turning on Wi-Fi Calling — I can guide you through that right now if you'd like.

Q9 "My calls keep dropping every few minutes."

AGENT SHOULD SAY:

That's frustrating, I understand. Does this happen at a specific location, or everywhere you go? ... Let me run a diagnostic on your line and the towers near your usual locations. ... I don't see any known outage, so let's try one thing first — could you restart your phone and try a test call? If it continues, I'll raise a network ticket right away with priority flagging.

Q10 "Is there a network outage in my area right now?"

AGENT SHOULD SAY:

Let me check that for you. ... Yes, I can confirm there's a network outage affecting your area since [time], caused by [reason if known]. Our network team has it flagged and the current estimated restoration time is [ETA]. I'll also apply a service credit to your account for the downtime once it's resolved — you won't need to request it separately.

Q11 "Why can I make calls but not receive them?"

AGENT SHOULD SAY:

That's an unusual pattern, let's figure it out. Can you check if your phone shows 'No Service' briefly or is it consistently connected? ... Based on what you're describing, this looks like a call-forwarding or network-registration issue rather than a coverage problem. I'm going to reset your line's network registration from our end — please turn your phone to airplane mode and back after two minutes and try again.

Q12 "Do I need to pay to fix a poor signal issue in my building?"

AGENT SHOULD SAY:

No, you don't need to pay anything for us to investigate and try to resolve a coverage issue — that's part of the service you're already paying for. If the fix eventually needs something like an indoor signal booster, I'll explain the options and any cost clearly before anything is installed, and only with your approval.

Q13

"The tower near my house is not working, when will it be fixed?"

AGENT SHOULD SAY:

Let me check the current status. ... I can see this has already been logged by our Network team, and the expected resolution time is [ETA] based on their latest update. I'll also add your number to be notified automatically by SMS once it's restored, so you don't need to call back to check.

3. Data Speed & Internet Issues

Q14 "My internet is so slow even though my plan says unlimited."

AGENT SHOULD SAY:

Let me check your usage for this cycle. ... I can see you've used 42GB of your plan's 40GB high-speed data limit, so your speed has been reduced to 64kbps as per the plan's fair usage policy — this isn't a fault, it's how the unlimited plan is designed. Your high-speed data will reset on [date]. If this happens often, I can show you a plan with a higher data limit that might suit you better — would that be useful?

Q15 "I haven't used much data but my speed is still slow."

AGENT SHOULD SAY:

Thanks for checking that yourself — let me verify. ... You're right, you're well within your fair-usage limit, so this looks like a genuine technical issue rather than throttling. Could you run a quick speed test on your mobile data, not Wi-Fi, and tell me the result? ... Thank you, I'm raising a technical ticket with that evidence attached, and our network team will investigate within 24 to 48 hours.

Q16 "Why does one specific app or website load slowly but everything else is fine?"

AGENT SHOULD SAY:

That's useful detail, thank you. Since it's isolated to one site or app, this is more likely on that service's end rather than our network, but let me quickly verify there's no site-specific restriction on your plan. ... I don't see any restriction from our side. I'd suggest trying that site again in a little while — if it continues only for that one service, it's worth checking with that app or website's own support.

Q17 "Can you increase my data speed permanently without changing my plan?"

AGENT SHOULD SAY:

I understand wanting more speed without switching plans, but your current plan's speed and data limit are fixed as part of what you signed up for, so I'm not able to change just the speed on its own. What I can do is show you plans with a higher-speed allowance at the next price point, so you can compare and decide if it's worth the switch.

4. Plans, Recharges & Validity

Q18 "I want to switch to a cheaper plan. Will I lose my number or validity?"

AGENT SHOULD SAY:

Good question — no, changing your plan never affects your number, your SIM, or how long you've been with us. Looking at your usage, you're using about 1.5GB a month, so our ■249 plan with 1GB/day would comfortably cover that at a lower cost. This change will take effect from your next billing cycle on [date], and any remaining validity on your current plan will carry over. Would you like me to go ahead with this?

Q19 "What happens if my plan expires before I recharge?"

AGENT SHOULD SAY:

If your plan expires without a recharge, outgoing calls, SMS, and data will stop, but you'll still be able to receive incoming calls for [grace period, e.g., 90 days] before the number is at risk of disconnection. I'd recommend setting up auto-recharge so this doesn't catch you off guard — would you like me to set that up now?

Q20 "Can I get extra data without upgrading my whole plan?"

AGENT SHOULD SAY:

Yes, you don't need to change your base plan for that. I can add a top-up data pack — for example, 6GB for ■98, valid for the rest of your current plan's validity. Would you like me to add that now?

Q21 "I recharged with the wrong plan by mistake. Can I get a different one instead?"

AGENT SHOULD SAY:

Let me check when this recharge was done. ... Since it was activated less than 24 hours ago and hasn't been used yet, I can reverse this recharge and apply the correct plan you meant to choose. I'll process that now — could you confirm the exact plan you'd like instead?

Q22 "Does my unused data carry over to next month?"

AGENT SHOULD SAY:

For your current plan, unused high-speed data does not carry over — it resets at the start of each new cycle. If carrying over data matters to you, there are a couple of plans that offer data rollover for a slightly higher price — I'm happy to show you those if you'd like to compare.

Q23 "Why did my plan price increase compared to last time?"

AGENT SHOULD SAY:

Let me check what changed. ... I can see there was a tariff revision effective [date] that applies to this plan, which is why the price moved from ■299 to ■349. This was communicated in advance via SMS to all customers on this plan. If this doesn't work for you, I can show you other plans closer to your original price point.

5. SIM, Number & Activation

Q24 "My new SIM card isn't activating."

AGENT SHOULD SAY:

I'm sorry for the delay — let's sort this out. First, I need to verify your identity using an alternate number or your ID on file since this SIM isn't working yet. ... Thank you. Let me check the activation status. ... I can see your KYC re-verification is still pending, which is required before the SIM can go live. The fastest way to complete it is [video KYC link / nearest store]. Once that's done, activation typically happens within one to four hours.

Q25 "I lost my phone and SIM. How do I get a replacement with the same number?"

AGENT SHOULD SAY:

I'm sorry to hear that — let's get this sorted quickly since your number is also your security lifeline right now. I'll first block your current SIM to prevent misuse. Then you'll need to visit the nearest store with a valid photo ID for a duplicate SIM — there's a small replacement fee of ■XX. Once issued, it typically activates within one to four hours after your ID is verified.

Q26 "Can I keep the same number if I upgrade my SIM to 5G/eSIM?"

AGENT SHOULD SAY:

Yes, absolutely — upgrading your SIM type doesn't change your number at all. I can process a 5G/eSIM upgrade for you right now. Your current SIM will stay active for a short window until the new one is confirmed active, so you won't lose connectivity in between.

Q27 "How long does a new SIM activation take after I submit my ID proof?"

AGENT SHOULD SAY:

Once your ID and KYC are verified, activation for a new connection typically completes within 4 to 24 hours, and you'll get an SMS confirmation the moment it's live. If it's been longer than 24 hours after verification, that's not normal — please reach out again and we'll escalate it immediately.

Q28 "Why is my SIM showing as blocked?"

AGENT SHOULD SAY:

Let me check the reason on your account. ... I can see this was blocked due to [reason — e.g., a reported loss, or a KYC mismatch]. If that was requested by you, I can confirm and proceed with a replacement. If you didn't request this, I'll flag it for immediate investigation as this could indicate an issue with your account.

Q29 "Can I transfer my number from prepaid to postpaid, or the other way around?"

AGENT SHOULD SAY:

Yes, that's a straightforward migration and your number stays exactly the same. It usually takes 24 to 48 hours to complete. I'll need to run a quick eligibility and verification check first — shall I go ahead and start that for you?

6. International Roaming

Q30 "I got a huge bill after traveling abroad. I thought I had a roaming pack."

AGENT SHOULD SAY:

I understand, let's go through this together. Let me check whether a roaming pack was actually active during your travel dates. ... I can see you requested the roaming pack on [date], but it shows as failed activation on our end — that's our error, not yours. I'm waiving the full excess amount of ■[X] right now. You'll see the correction reflected within 5 to 7 business days.

Q31 "Do I get charged for calls I receive while roaming abroad?"

AGENT SHOULD SAY:

Yes, that's standard across all telecom providers — while roaming internationally, both outgoing and incoming calls are charged, and this is disclosed at the time of purchasing the roaming pack. If you'd like, I can add an international roaming pack now so future calls and data are at a fixed, lower rate.

Q32 "How do I activate international roaming before my trip?"

AGENT SHOULD SAY:

Happy to set that up. Could you tell me your travel destination and dates? ... Based on that, I'd recommend the [pack name] roaming pack, which covers calls, SMS and data for your trip at ■[X]. I can activate it right now so it's ready before you fly, or schedule it to start on your departure date — which would you prefer?

Q33 "Can you set a limit so I don't get an unexpected roaming bill again?"

AGENT SHOULD SAY:

Definitely, that's a smart precaution. I can set a spend alert that notifies you by SMS once you're close to a set limit while roaming, and I can also set a hard usage cap so data automatically stops instead of continuing to bill you. What limit would you like me to set?

7. Value-Added Services & Subscriptions

Q34 "I'm being charged for a subscription I never signed up for."

AGENT SHOULD SAY:

I'm sorry about that, let's fix it right away. Let me check if there's a recorded consent for this on your account. ... I don't see any confirmed opt-in from you, so I'm deactivating this subscription immediately and refunding all charges billed for it. You won't be charged for it again.

Q35 "How do I stop getting promotional SMS and calls?"

AGENT SHOULD SAY:

I can set that up for you right now. I'll register your number on our Do-Not-Disturb list, which stops promotional SMS and calls. This usually takes effect within 7 days. Please note transactional messages, like OTPs and billing alerts, will still come through, since those are essential service communications.

Q36 "Can I get caller tune / entertainment pack removed?"

AGENT SHOULD SAY:

Sure, I can deactivate that right now. Just to confirm — you'd like [service name] removed completely, and any remaining balance days won't be charged going forward, correct? ... Done, it's deactivated as of now.

Q37 "Why did a service auto-renew without me asking for it?"

AGENT SHOULD SAY:

Let me check the subscription terms you agreed to. ... This service was set up with auto-renewal at the time of activation, which was mentioned at sign-up. Since I understand that wasn't clear to you, I'm switching this off now so it won't renew again, and I'll also refund this cycle's charge as a one-time courtesy.

8. Device & Handset Support

Q38 "The phone I bought from you has stopped charging. Is it under warranty?"

AGENT SHOULD SAY:

Let me check your purchase record. ... Yes, your device was purchased on [date] and is still within its 12-month warranty period. Before we go further, could you try a different charging cable and adapter, just to rule out a simple cause? ... If it still doesn't charge, please visit our nearest authorized service center with your invoice and ID — they'll run a diagnostic and the standard repair turnaround is 7 to 10 business days.

Q39 "Will my warranty be void if I get the phone repaired outside your service center?"

AGENT SHOULD SAY:

Yes, that's worth knowing before you decide — getting it repaired at an unauthorized center does void the manufacturer warranty for future claims. If it's still within warranty, I'd strongly recommend going through our authorized service center instead, so you don't lose that coverage.

Q40 "Can I get a replacement phone instead of a repair?"

AGENT SHOULD SAY:

That decision is made by the service center based on their diagnostic — for certain confirmed manufacturing defects, a replacement is offered instead of a repair. I can't guarantee that outcome from here, but I'll note your preference for a replacement on the service ticket so it's considered.

Q41 "Is my broken screen covered under warranty?"

AGENT SHOULD SAY:

Physical damage, including a cracked or broken screen, is a standard exclusion under manufacturer warranty across all brands, so it likely wouldn't be covered for free. That said, the service center will still inspect it and give you a paid repair estimate if you'd like to go ahead — would you like me to book that appointment?

9. Cancellation & Number Porting

Q42 "I want to cancel my connection and switch to another provider but keep my number."

AGENT SHOULD SAY:

I understand, and I can help you do that. To switch operators while keeping your number, you'll need a Unique Porting Code, which I can send to you right now by SMS — just reply PORT to 1900 and you'll receive it within a few minutes. Before you go, is there a specific issue I could try to resolve for you? ... No problem — I'll process this without any delay. Just note any outstanding dues need to be cleared for the port to complete.

Q43 "How long is my porting code valid for?"

AGENT SHOULD SAY:

Your porting code is valid for 15 days from when it's issued. You'll need to submit it to your new operator within that window, or you'll need to request a fresh one.

Q44 "Will I get my security deposit back if I cancel my postpaid connection?"

AGENT SHOULD SAY:

Yes — once your final bill is settled and there are no outstanding dues, your security deposit of ■[X] will be refunded to your registered bank account within [X] business days of the connection closing.

Q45 "Can you stop my porting request from going through? I changed my mind."

AGENT SHOULD SAY:

Yes, that's possible as long as the port hasn't already completed on the new operator's side. Let me check the current status. ... Good news, it's still pending — I'm cancelling the porting request now, and your service with us will continue as normal.

10. Refunds

Q46 "I recharged but the plan never got added to my account. I want a refund."

AGENT SHOULD SAY:

I'm sorry about that — let me verify the payment first. ... I can confirm the payment of ₹299 went through successfully on our end, but the plan wasn't applied due to a system error. I can either activate the plan for you right now, or refund the amount — which would you prefer?

Q47 "How long does a refund take to reach my account?"

AGENT SHOULD SAY:

If it's going back to your original payment method — card, UPI or net banking — it typically takes 5 to 7 business days depending on your bank. If you'd prefer it as account/wallet credit instead, that's usually much faster, often within 24 hours. Which would you like?

Q48 "Can I get a refund for a data pack I already used most of?"

AGENT SHOULD SAY:

Since that pack has already been active and mostly consumed, it's not eligible for a refund — this applies uniformly once a service has been delivered and used. If there was a specific issue with how it was activated or billed, I'm happy to look into that separately.

11. Complaints, Anger & Escalation

Q49 "This is my third call about the same issue. Get me a manager right now."

AGENT SHOULD SAY:

I'm really sorry you've had to call three times about this — that shouldn't have happened, and I want to fix it properly this time. Let me pull up your full history first. ... I can see the previous two attempts. Let me see if I can resolve this for you right now myself. ... If you'd still like to speak with a supervisor after this, I will connect you immediately and brief them fully so you don't have to repeat everything again.

Q50 "Your service is terrible and I'm extremely frustrated."

AGENT SHOULD SAY:

I hear you, and I'm sorry for the frustration this has caused — that's completely understandable. Let's go through exactly what's happened so I can fix it for you right now. Can you walk me through the issue?

Q51 "I want to file a formal complaint."

AGENT SHOULD SAY:

Of course, I'll log that formally right now. Could you describe the issue in detail so I capture it accurately? ... Thank you, I've registered this as complaint reference [REF ID]. You'll receive updates by SMS, and it will be resolved within [SLA]. If you don't hear back within that window, please quote this reference number when you follow up.

Q52 "Nobody called me back like you promised last time."

AGENT SHOULD SAY:

I'm really sorry about that — a missed callback is on us, not you. Let me check what happened. ... I can see a callback was scheduled but wasn't completed. I'm escalating this to my supervisor right now with a mandatory callback window of [time], and I'll personally note it so it's tracked until you hear back.

Q53 "I'm going to switch providers if this isn't fixed today."

AGENT SHOULD SAY:

I completely understand, and I don't want you to have to make that decision because of an unresolved issue. Let me see exactly what I can do right now to fix this for you today, rather than promising something for later. ... Here's what I can do immediately: [resolution]. Does that work for you?

Q54 "Can I speak to someone senior, not another agent?"

AGENT SHOULD SAY:

Absolutely, I'll transfer you to my supervisor right away. Before I do, let me quickly brief them on everything you've told me so you won't need to repeat it. One moment please.

12. Account, KYC & Security

Q55 "Someone else might be using my number or account. What do I do?"

AGENT SHOULD SAY:

That's a serious concern, let's act on it immediately. I'm going to secure your account right now by resetting your account PIN and flagging your line for a security review. Can you confirm if you've received any OTPs or messages you didn't request recently? ... Thank you, I'm escalating this to our fraud and security team right away, and I'll stay on the line with you until it's secured.

Q56 "Why do I need to complete KYC again? I already gave my ID when I bought the SIM."

AGENT SHOULD SAY:

I understand the repetition is annoying — this specific re-verification is required because of [reason: SIM replacement / regulatory refresh cycle / mismatch flagged on your ID]. It's a one-time step and won't be needed again for this reason. I can guide you through the fastest way to complete it right now, either via video KYC or your nearest store.

Q57 "How do I update my registered mobile number or email on my account?"

AGENT SHOULD SAY:

I can help with that. For security, I'll need to verify your identity with your current registered number first. ... Thank you, that's verified. Please share the new number or email you'd like on file — I'll send a confirmation link/OTP to it, and once you confirm on that end, the update will be complete.

Q58 "Can you tell me my account PIN or password over the phone?"

AGENT SHOULD SAY:

I'm not able to share or read out your account PIN or password over the phone, even to you directly — that's a security policy that protects your account. What I can do is reset it right now: I'll send a one-time reset code to your registered number, and you can set a new PIN yourself.

Note: Amounts, dates, SLAs and reference numbers in these scripts are illustrative placeholders reflecting common telecom industry practice — always substitute the real figures from the customer's own account before speaking, and align exact wording with your organization's brand voice and approved policy manual.
